ORLANDO BLOOM

"Porn is super-disruptive to your sex life, to your libido... When you watch multiple people at multiple times in one evening, how is your actual real-life partner going to match up? It's just so destructive."

BILLIE EILISH

"I started watching porn when I was like 11. I was an advocate and I thought I was one of the guys and would talk about it and think I was really cool... I think it really destroyed my brain, and I feel incredibly devastated that I was exposed to so much porn... It led to problems where the first few times I had sex, I was not saying no to things that were not good. It's because I thought that was what I was supposed to be attracted to. I am so angry that porn is so loved."

MARISOL NICHOLS

"If you're watching horrible stuff, you should just think about it. Like there's a guy and he's watching 'normal porn'... and then that doesn't do it for him. So he clicks here and he clicks here and he starts going darker and darker and darker and darker. Where does that lead?... And so if we can... educate people before they even get into that trap, that would be huge."

TERRY CREWS

"My issue was, and is with pornography, that it changes the way you think about people. People become objects, people become body parts; they become things to be used rather than people to be loved."

JOSEPH GORDON-LEVITT

"I think that there's not a substantial difference between a lot of mainstream media and pornography. They're equally simplistic, reductionist. Whether it's rated X or approved by the FCC for general viewing audiences, the message is the same. We have a tendency in our culture to take people and treat them like things."

RUSSELL BRAND

"Pornography is not something I like, it's something that I haven't been able to make a long-term commitment to not looking at, and it's affecting my ability to relate to women, to relate to myself, my own sexuality.... There's a cloud of pornographic information... that's making it impossible for us to relate to our own sexuality, our own psychology."

JULIETTE BINOUCHE

"A lot of men take porn as not that important, not that serious.... I think the first time I was aware that [a partner was using porn], I was really shocked because I didn't understand it. Lovemaking for me is related to feelings, and sensations with feelings, and so when you don't have the feelings it becomes animal-like because you're not in touch with your heart."

JOSH RADNOR

"Porn peddles selfishness, domination, and oppression — all terrible qualities to bring to a relationship. It strips women of personality, agency, and dimensionality, reducing them to objects who exist simply for men's sexual pleasure."
